

We are on the home stretch now with majority if not all teams no longer able to add any new players to their rosters, let's hope there are minimal injuries to all teams from here on out!!!

After the long weekend McKinnon kick off round 12 by hosting Keilor Saturday night, this will be a great match up as both teams are fighting it out for 6th position on the ladder in their race to make finals. Chelsea Bransden from McKinnon had a big night out in her last game & will be hoping to back that up against the struggling Thunder.

Corio Bay will suit up this week against the Venom without Tamara Knox after a horror injury over the long weekend during the Origin All Star match. Warrantdyte took charge last time these two teams met back in round 9 where they managed to get up by 19points by the final siren. How will Corio go without one of their stand out players against the strongest team in the comp?

Werribee have a tough match this week as they invite the current number 1 team to their home court, the Eagles haven't had a great season so far and I doubt Camberwell are going to go lightly here either as every point counts. The Dragons have an extra game under their belt compared to some of the other front runners so if they want to remain top they must win every game, a loss here could hurt them badly.

Coburg verse Chelsea would have to be match of the round, Coburg's record of 6-5 may look better than Chelsea's 4-6 but Chelsea have knocked off some of the front runners in this competition while losing to some of the tail enders. Tamara Booth will have to work with her team if they want to stop Lyndsey "Hacka" Hoogenhout who didn't get a weekend off as she starred & dominated in the Origin All Star match last Saturday night. Will be a great game to get out and see if you're in the Coburg area.

Craigieburn would have loved having a weekend off last week as they have been struggling through the 2017 season so far with a 2-9 record. They take the trip out to the Geelong this week to try keep them out of the winners circle, Geelong had a great month in May going 4-0 but haven't started June in the same fashion unfortunately going down to the number 1 team Camberwell. The Super Cats must get that win and defend their home court if they want to be classed as real finals contenders.
