

Round 9 promises exciting clashes with some unpredictable outcomes.

Coburg have been playing exceptionally well the past few weeks. It will be a real test to see how they perform against Craigieburn who sit just one place behind them on the ladder. Craigieburn had a ground breaking win last weekend again Wallan, despite not going into the clash as favourites. Watching the likes of Applewhaite, Hall and Conroy go up against Bailey-Lynn, Stewart and Campbell will be thrilling. If both teams play with the same vigour and consistency, this will be a fantastic match.

Collingwood have been clawing their way up in the competition, after starting the season with consecutive losses. They will put up a good fight against Mornington, however the Breakers head into the round as favourites for this game at their home stadium. Eyes will be on Badon to see if she can replicate her fantastic individual performance last weekend, and give Mornington a run for their money.

Altona will play Keysborough and North East this weekend. If they plan to get a win this season, this round should be the one they bring their A-game. Both Keysborough and North East are their closest matched competition for Altona. This is their best chance. They essentially have two shots at finally getting some victories for the season.

Melbourne Uni will play Wallan in an early game on Sunday. This will be a tight contest, with Melbourne Uni sitting just one place behind Wallan. Wallan come off the back of a surprising loss last weekend and should gather themselves and enter this round strong.

Week-in, week-out it is now assumed that Warrnambool will naturally come out on top against any of their competition in this division. Warrnambool have truly established their status this season, and are hot favourites for premiers. They will play Blackburn, and this game should not be an exception to their undefeated streak.

Keysborough vs Altona
Mornington vs Collingwood
Warrnambool vs Blackburn
Melbourne Uni vs Wallan
Altona vs North East

Sat 5pm
Sat 6pm
Sat 7pm
Sun 11am
Sun 1pm

Rowville Secondary College
Mornington Basketball Stadium
The Arc Sports Stadium
Melbourne University Sports Centre
Altona Sports Centre

/BIGVBASKETBALL

@BIGV_BALL

@BIGV_BALL

@BBALLVIC